McDermott has opened headquarters in Lexington. Ed is evidently the worst fooled man in the bunch.

Tilman Poor, aged 19, threw an iron weight at his father near Knoxville, and hit his mother, crushing her skull.

E. E. Lawrence, of Ashland, is to withdraw and let Steger and Keenon fight it out for clerk of the court of appeals.

Paducah had a "water circus" yesterday in the river with 50 acts by 250 people. Alas! this is one thing Hopkinsville can't have this year.

While three young men were joy riding near Lexington their machine went into a ditch and one of them, Chas. F. Laval, a bank clerk, was instantly killed.

A Georgia mob after lynching two negroes found out they were the wrong ones and promptly apologized to their relatives and resumed the search for the real culprits.

Justice Hughes has refused a writ of error in the case of Charles Becker, holding that no federal question is involved. Becker evidently is doomed to die the last week in July.

Stanley's campaign in Central Kentucky is a triumphal tour. At Cynthiana he was met by a brass band a mile from town and the courthouse wouldn't hold his crowd.

A fellow by the name of Holt, or something else, blew up the reception room of the White House, shot J. P. Morgan, the millionaire, and then committed suicide in prison in the past week.—LaCenter Advance.

Judge Bunk Gardner, of Mayfield, may or may not win the race he is making in his district, but has got to the point where admiring supporters are naming babies Bunk Gardner. They must be strong to dub the kids "Bunk."

A Dixie Bee-Line meeting was held in Evansville Saturday with 19 county chairman present. Christian and Robertson were not represented. The meeting decided upon an inspection of all proposed routes before a decision is made.

Governor Capper, of Kansas, will be fifty years old to-morrow and has invited all children under 16 years in Topeka and Kansas to be his guests on that day at a monster birthday party. He has leased all the moving picture theatres in Topeka for the day for the entertainment of his guests.

Judge James A. Collins, judge of the Indianapolis criminal court, has sentenced Geo. M. Ray, editor of a weekly Democratic paper, to jail for 30 days and fined him $25 for editorially "commenting on the activities of the Marion county grand jury" a few days before Taggart and others were indicted for alleged election frauds. Judge Collins evidently belongs to that class of judges who sometimes outgrow their trousers.

GERMANY BRINGS ON A CRISIS

Proposals Contained in Note Regarded Unacceptable to the United States.

WILL DELIBERATE A WEEK

Secretary May Go to Cornish Soon to Confer With President Wilson.

Washington, July 12.—Study of Germany's reply to the American note on submarine warfare strengthens the conviction of high officials that a critical point in the relations between the two countries has been reached.

Not only do officials feel the United States must refuse to accept German proposals for the future conduct of American citizens on the high seas, it was declared, but the failure of Germany to disavow the sinking of the Lusitania with a loss of American lives, in their view, has brought on a crisis.

That there will be no action by the United States for at least another week is indicated. Several days will be required to measure fully the consequences and responsibilities the American government will incur in framing a policy to meet the situation. Secretary Lansing probably will go to Cornish, N. H., within a day or two to confer with President Wilson.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, intends to call on Secretary Lansing during the week to learn informally whether he can be of any service in the situation.

MUENTER MADE GOOD

Crew of Minnehaha Has Hard Fight With Flames in Hold.

Halifax, N. S., July 9.—A bomb placed aboard the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha, probably while she lay at her pier in New York, caused an explosion and fire at sea, which forced the steamer to put in here for examination today, in the opinion of the vessel's officers.

The explosion occurred in No. 3 hold and was of terrific force, shaking the vessel from stem to stern. Those of the crew forward at the time were stunned by the shock and two sailors were hurled bodily into the air. Flames followed quickly and for two days and nights the crew battled heroically to save the ship.

The ship's officers do not doubt that Erich Muentzer, alias Frank Holt, or confederates, were responsible for the explosion which occurred on the afternoon of July 7, the date on which Muentzer predicted that some vessel, the name of which he appeared uncertain, would be destroyed.

Muentzer's plans were frustrated by the fact that his weapon of destruction was placed with miscellaneous freight forward and was not near an enormous cargo of ammunition.

While the sailors fought the fire, Captain Claret headed for Halifax, and brought the vessel safely through a gale and fog to an anchorage in the lower harbor here today. The flames meanwhile had eaten their way into 4 hold, but late today it was announced they had been extinguished.

Wealthy Man Died.

Owensboro, Ky., July 12.—Richard Monarch, distiller, and at one time one of the wealthiest men in Kentucky, died from a paralytic stroke Friday night. Three months ago his wife was burned to death. He was seventy-six years old.

The New Methodist Church

The above accompanying cut is a fair representation of the proposed new Methodist church on the corner of Main and Thirteenth streets, and when built it will be an ornament to Hopkinsville.

The style of architecture is the Tudor Gothic, which is very popular in Europe, and is a fast growing into favor in this country.

This new church plant will be very imposing and complete in every department and in its furnishings.

The basement arrangement will provide for the Primary and Beginners' department in the Sunday school. Also the Men's Bible Class, the Young People's Epworth League meeting, Ladies' Rest Room and Parlor. Also a kitchen, dining room and every arrangement for church social functions. The Auditorium will accommodate 500, and on occasions the Sunday school room will be thrown into the Auditorium, which will give a grand seating capacity of 1,350. The Sunday school department will be fitted and finished in the most modern equipment to do the most effective work, and will have a seating capacity of 850, besides the provisions for the Men's Bible Class and the Primary and Beginners' departments in the Epworth Hall.

The church will be of Bowling Green Stone and covered with red tiling, and the windows of the best Cathedral glass. At this particular time Dr. Lewis Powell, the pastor, says he believes he can build the magnificent church for the sum of $50,000.

REV. DR. LEWIS POWELL, PASTOR.

RUSSIANS STANDING FIRMER

Threatened Teutonic Advance Believed to Have Been Postponed.

FRENCH MADE GOOD HEADWAY

Italians Make Good Progress in Capturing Mounts Around Triest.

London, July 12.—The check the Russians have imposed on Archduke Joseph Ferdinand's army in southern Poland and the additional strain this has placed on the German army to the right has postponed, military experts here believe, the threatened German offensive to the west, and there is now a possibility that the allies will take the offensive first.

In support of this it is pointed out that attacks by the German crown prince's army in the Woivre, which the German press announced was the commencement of a general move forward, have ceased.

While military critics still are undecided whether the Russians will make their stand on their present lines or fall back to the Bug river, thus abandoning the fortress of Ivangorod and Warsaw, it is agreed that the counter-attack which they have developed has postponed for a time at least the necessity for further retirement.

There is no confirmation of a reported Italian victory on the Corso plateau, but Rome dispatches say the Italians are making good progress in their work of capturing the mounts around Triest, which they hope to take before commencing an advance on the city itself, thus avoiding a bombardment of the town largely inhabited by their compatriots.

After battling 120 days for the country between Bethune and Arras, French forces now hold all the strong points looking out on the plain of Flanders, Lille, Douai and Cambrai.

Every position along the national road between Arras and Bethune has been won except Souchez, and last night another quarter mile of trenches in the Souchez web was torn away. The attack was made under parachute rocket lights, the French burning bluish white and the Germans greenish white, covering the scene of the conflict with a ghastly glow.

The most desperate fighting has been along a short ten-mile front from Arras to Aix Noullette, which began March 9, with the taking of a few hundred yards of trenches. Every day since some section of the German Trenches has been taken, lost or retaken.

Germany's Reply.

Germany's offer, embodied in the American note regarding the sinking of the Lusitania and submarine warfare, which was delivered to American Ambassador Gerard Friday night, is:

First, reiterated assurance that American ships engaged in legitimate trade will not be interfered with, nor the lives of Americans on neutral ships be endangered.

Second, that German submarines will be instructed to allow American passenger ships to pass freely and safely, Germany entertaining in return the confident hope that the American government will see that these ships do not carry contraband; such ships to be provided with distinguishing marks and their arrival announced a reasonable time in advance. The same privilege is extended to a reasonable number of neutral passenger ships under the American flag, and should the number of ships thus available for passenger service prove inadequate, Germany is willing to permit America to place four hostile passenger steamers under the American flag to ply between North America and Europe under the same conditions.

The hippodrome speeches of Senator Beckham and Judge O'Rear, delivered some months ago, are now being circulated in a pamphlet form. Judge O'Rear's influence was not felt in the Republican party and Senator Beckham has lost much of his former influence in the Democratic party. A campaign year is not a time for double-barreled politics.

The issue that Harry McChesney has elected to run upon is one that will surely split the Democratic party, as it splits any party that takes it up. He could not, if nominated, win in November without Republican votes. Does he know of any Republicans who would vote for him or who can honorably vote for him if they take part in their own primary?

American farmers, confronted with feeding the world while Europe is at war, have planted record acreages of all principal crops. There is an area of 109,273 acres of corn—larger than ever before—and it is expected to produce 2,814,000,000 bushels, according to the Department of Agriculture's estimate. The outlook for a billion bushels wheat crop continues good.

Is Tuberculosis Curable?

EVERY once in a while people will ask "Do you really think Consumption can be cured?" and then, when they are told that thousands of cases all over the world bear witness to the fact of the curability of this disease, they wonder why their several friends and relatives, who died with tuberculosis, were not cured.

Tuberculosis is curable, but not everyone is cured, and not everyone can be cured. The chief reason why more consumptives are not cured is because they have waited too long before they heeded the warning danger signals of the disease, or because some doctor to whom they went did not recognize this deadly plague. In its early stages, consumption can be cured, and the patient can generally resume his normal life within a period ranging from six months to two years, depending on circumstances. As high a percentage of actual recoveries from tuberculosis may be found in really early cases who follow the right course of treatment as in almost any other infectious disease.

What, then, is the right course of treatment? This article cannot prescribe for individual cases, but it can and will tell what are the essentials in taking the cure for tuberculosis.

First of all, there is a good doctor on whom you can rely and whose advice and inspiration is most valuable to you. He will not give you much medicine, because there isn't any drug or "cure" that he can prescribe that will do more than to relieve some immediate symptoms, such as constipation, cough, headache, etc. If your doctor begins to talk of a "marvelous remedy" which will cure you, it is time you looked for another physician. That man is more than likely a quack and is simply after your money. There is no sure or quick "cure" or remedy for tuberculosis that you can buy at a drugstore or that a doctor can give you.

The second essential in the cure of tuberculosis is fresh air. To the healthy person the best tonic is fresh air at work, at play, and during sleep. To the consumptive, however, air is medicine. He must take it in as large doses as he can, the more the better. It may not be easy for one who has been accustomed to indoor work to sleep and live outdoors, but since fresh air is vital, he must accustom himself to being outside all he can. At sanatoria for the treatment of tuberculosis, patients are out of doors on porches or elsewhere almost all the time. If one is at home, he can with a little ingenuity arrange devices for outdoor sleeping and sitting. The National Tuberculosis Association, 105 East 22nd Street, New York, will send free of charge to anyone a booklet entitled: "Directions for Living and Sleeping in the Open Air."

The next essential in the cure of tuberculosis is rest. Like fresh air, rest must be taken as a medicine by the consumptive. The reason for rest is evident, when you stop to think the way the germs of tuberculosis work. As they destroy the tissues of the lungs or other parts of the body, they make a wound or a cavity. This wound, like a cut on your finger, will not heal if it is being opened all the time. To keep the lungs as quiet as possible, rest in bed, or in a reclining chair is absolutely necessary. The dose of rest you take will depend on your doctor's advice. He will tell you when you can get out of bed and when you can exercise and how much. But first and foremost you must learn to rest, in order to give the lungs a chance to heal.

Besides a good doctor, fresh air and rest, the cure for tuberculosis requires good, wholesome food. In normal health, food of the right kind is very necessary, but in tuberculosis it is doubly important. Food is the fuel which heats the body and gives it its energy or you might almost say "steam." In tuberculosis one must pay special attention to food, because he has to provide fuel not only for the ordinary functions of the body, but he must provide an additional supply to meet the waste and damage done by the germs of the disease. This doesn't mean that you must be continually stuffing yourself, for if you do that you will upset your stomach, bowels, and liver, and you will counteract all the good the food might do. Neither does it mean that you must eat just one or two kinds of food, such as milk and eggs, which some people think are a cure for tuberculosis. They are excellent foods for people who can eat and digest them readily, and every consumptive should try to acquire an appetite for them. But meat and potatoes and bread and butter and good vegetables and almost any other nourishing, wholesome food in plenty of variety are needed also. Don't rely on tid-bits and sweets, but stoke your body furnace with food-fuel that will keep it running in the best possible order. Your doctor is the best one to advise on foods.

And, finally, a last essential in the cure of tuberculosis may be summed up in these words: "Don't worry." Keep a hopeful state of mind. If you give up and say "It's no use," you will never get well, no matter how patiently you follow the other essentials of a cure. Getting well depends for the most part on you. Backbone, hopefulness and courage will do more for you than all the doctors in the world.

Just a word as to where to take the cure. If you can go to a sanatorium, do so. There are not enough sanatoria for everyone, however. So you may have to stay at home and fight alone. Remember, tuberculosis can be cured if you take it in time and do your part.

CARING FOR FARM POULTRY

Abundant Supply of Pure Water, Grit and Charcoal Should Be Provided for Flock in Summer.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)

During summer we should provide an abundance of pure water, grit and charcoal for the farm flock. Keep the houses cool at night and well ventilated at all times when the fowls are kept inside. Wheat, oats and a mash feed once a day makes an excellent supply of feed during the warm weather.

Feed no musty and fermented feed. A sour mash is highly injurious. Sour milk may be used to moisten the mash but no more should be mixed at one time than the fowls will clean up at one feeding.

Allow no feeds to accumulate in the feed troughs. Feather eating among hens is usually prevalent during summer. In some cases the feathers are almost stripped from the neck of the birds and the flesh is lacerated with the beaks and burned by the sun.

This habit is invariably caused by lack of proper substance in the feed. Prevention is better than cure, and perfect health and vitality among the flock should do this.

Old hens intended for the market should always be sold early before they begin to moult or else you will be compelled to feed them three or four months before they have completed a new set of plumage and look fit to be sold as market poultry.

I have found nothing better than to feed them sparingly with nitrogenous feeds until about the first week in September and follow this with an abundance of wholesome stimulating feeds to encourage the growth of plumage.

A little flaxseed meal or linseed oil meal added to their feed helps the growth of feathers and gives bright, healthy and glossy appearance to their plumage. The care of the birds during summer has a wonderful influence upon the number of eggs the older hens will lay during the winter.

BAD SIGN TO TAP ON WOOD

Clergyman Expresses the Opinion That Luck Signal Is Expressing Doubt in God.

Every time a person "taps on wood" to counteract the seeming boastfulness of having declared that he hasn't "had a sick day this year" or some such piece of good fortune, he is admitting that his God is no better than those of the heathen, of an envious and quarrelsome disposition, who dislike to see human beings at all exuberant over their luck, according to the Rev. Charles Wood, who preached last night on "Temporary and Permanent Peace," at the Church of the Covenant. He was exhorting the congregation to make peace with God and to believe in him as a kind Father.

Speaking of peace in Europe, Doctor Wood said:
"Humanity has needlessly lost faith in peace conferences, culture, and even Christianity in some cases, though it was only the lack of faith that allowed the breaking out of hostilities. Many wonder if war may not become a permanent condition in the world. This is palpably impossible. It is impossible to reckon out the duration of the war by comparing statistics of natural resources of the countries engaged and their periods of exhaustion, but it is easy to see that war, being an abnormal condition, is bound to end in time, like a fire or plague.

"However, peace will be nothing but an armed truce until humanitarian diplomats, if we can join those two words, come together with the idea of an entirely equitable adjustment, and with a Christian spirit."

SAVING THE HALF CENT.

In these times, when every little that can be saved on the living expenses of the poor counts, I would suggest that the United States government coin a half-cent, which would be of great benefit to those who must count every cent of expenses.

For instance, if one wished to buy a half-pound of coffee, at 25 cents a pound, one would be obliged to pay 13 cents; with a half-cent piece in use there would be a saving of half a cent. There are many other things, too numerous to mention, that could be bought by poor people, especially fruit. One often sees apples and bananas sold two for one cent. If a poor person had a half-cent he could buy one, when he did not need two.—New York Times.

MILD GLOATING.

"You have no anarchistic tendencies, I hope?" said the altruist.

"None in particular," answered the dusty pedestrian, "but sometimes I can't repress a chuckle when I hear the air escaping from a punctured automobile tire."

REDUCING THE OVERHEAD.

"I see you have let your business manager go."

"Yes, I didn't see the need of him. I had to get the business. What I got he was willing to manage."

BROUGHT THEM HOME.

Patience—I see they're back from their honeymoon trip.

Patience—So soon?

"Yes, I guess his money gave out."

WHAT HE WAS OUT FOR.

Bill—Wasn't he ashamed to shoot that young deer?

Jill—Why, no; he said he was out for the doe.

Stopped Those Pains.

Copper Hill, Va.—Mrs. Ida Conner, of this place, says: "For years, I had a pain in my right side, and was very sick with woman's troubles. I tried different doctors but could get no relief. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I took Cardui, and it relieved the pain in my side, and now I feel like a new person. It is a wonderful medicine." Many women are completely worn-out and discouraged on account of some womanly trouble. Are you? Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Its record shows that it will help you. Why wait? Try it today. Ask your druggist about it.—Advertisement.

VICTORY GOES TO PLODDER

"Exceptional" Youngsters Nearly Always Cease to Be Prodigies When They Grow Up.

Have you ever noticed how few "smart" people amount to anything? The "slick" individuals you meet—they do not seem to get anywhere. The fakers are the "smartest" people on earth, but you have never known one to get very far on the road to success. Take the "smart" girl. She seems to know everything on earth. She dresses a little louder than other girls. She always manages to wear something that is "chic." She has the boys hanging around her in groups. She talks in terms that the plainer girl cannot understand; but later on in life she will be found putting up a terrific fight against time while the girl who was not nearly so smart is occupying a position of dignity and joy at the head of a sensible home.

And as for the smart boy—the one who "gets by" in a manner the other boys cannot understand, and who may for the time being be envied by the other boys because of his foppish manners—he doesn't become the head of a prosperous business. It is the plodder that seems to get there in the end—the boy who doesn't "catch on" quite so rapidly as the smart boy. Probably not 1 per cent of the successful men in the world today gave any evidence of having great ability when they were "kids." The prodigies do not make good. The "exceptional" youngster in school seldom conquers after he has entered real life; but the plain fellow of common sense, slow to learn, slow to become enthused, slow to make companions and slow to give them up—the fellow who sticks to a job until it is finished, that is the fellow who in after life rules and regulates the affairs of this little green ball.—Dayton News.

DRAWBACKS TO NEW IDEA

Cutting Down of Hours of Sleep Will Be Sure to Meet With Much Opposition.

A specialist who has pursued his studies with devotion, announces that sleep is a mere habit of the human mind and body that may be thrown off completely through gradual relinquishment. It is his view that the average man may add 20 years to his conscious existence by disposing of his sleep habit. The cult has progressed to the extent that many men are now in a way to eliminate their hours of repose, with some show of success, but there is vast complaint from their families during the preliminary stages of the cure. The man who has been sleeping eight hours is not enabled to shade the interval of rest to four hours without seriously disturbing his household. One who retires at midnight and arises at four o'clock in the morning awakens other inmates of his home, both on retiring and arising. There is some inherent defect in human nature that leads one to go blundering about a house, knocking over chairs and shaking down the furnace, when he should be preserving a deep silence. For this reason the home treatment of the sleep habit is not likely to be popular. What should be done, for the protection of normal humans, is to have the sleep-habit patients in barracks where they may strangle sleep at will without disturbing others. To curious strangers the barracks would be a show place, where the lights would be always shining like beacons and where the activities of life might proceed as at noon. There is some denture to the sleep treatment for the reason that it adds one meal a day to the requirements of the patient—a requirement that is practically prohibitive to many.

Stomach Ache.

Segmentary neurosis is the predisposing cause of disease belonging to the class of the paroxysmal spasmodic disorders associated with the musculature of the alimentary canal. In members of this class seizures occur in connection with food taking and gastro-oesophageal hypertonus; they also occur from mental and emotional excitement, and from muscular effort; in them both visceral and parietal layers of muscles are engaged in spasm. Consequently they resemble the anginal seizure in other features besides that of predisposing cause. A neurosis attended by intercostal hyperalgesia ensues when dendritic fibers belonging to the affected center traverse pressure zones of hyperplasia, aneurisms, new growths and pericardial and pleuritic adhesions. Hence these diseases, as well as gastric disorders, may be regarded as potential remote causes of anginal pains and seizures.—H. Walter Verduin in the Lancet.

Odd Fishes.

It is said that at one time the Icelanders taught tame bears to jump into the sea and catch seals. In China birds do equally well, for at a signal they dive into the lakes and bring up large fish grasped in their bills. In Greece the fishermen use branches of pine steeped in pitch and lighted; the inhabitants of Amorogus used cypress-leaved cedar, which served, when lighted, as a lure; and the Chinese fish in the night with white-painted boards placed in a manner to reflect the rays of the moon upon the water. These attract the fish to the boat, when the men cast a large net and seldom fail to draw out considerable quantities. Anchovies are fished for in a similar manner.

WAR! What Is It All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour clashing just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia?

See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions may be sacrificed. Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades; through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Grosvonts completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past he is the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

2ND VICE PREST. UNSEATED

H. B. M. A. Holds Meeting Friday Night--Resolutions of Respect.

The first meeting of the H. B. M. A. since the new officers were elected, was held Friday night with 22 members present. Later the Directors, 10 of the 12 present, held a meeting presided over by President Jas. O. Cook, and re-elected Secretary Jno. W. Richards for a term of one year.

The point was raised that the position of second vice president, created about three years ago, was not legally created, and Mr. T. C. Underwood, who had been chosen to the office by the members in the election last week, accepted the decision without protest. The office was filled in 1913 by M. C. Forbes and in 1914 by Geo. D. Dalton, the principal duties being presiding officer at directory meetings and other duties in connection with auditing bills. The point raised and sustained by President Cook was that the amendment passed creating the office received less than two-thirds of the votes cast. At the time it was declared passed.

A proposition to publish a rating book for Hopkinsville and nearby towns was endorsed.

The following committee was appointed to draft resolutions respecting the death of the late J. B. Gerard: G. E. Dalton, C. R. Clark and E. C. Radford. The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, the Supreme Architect of the Universe has seen fit in his Providence to remove from our Association, Jerome B. Gerard, who departed this life July 8, 1915.

Resolved—That in the death of our friend and faithful member, Jerome B. Gerard, this Association has lost one of its most faithful and worthy members, the wife and son, a kind, affectionate husband and father and may his memory and deeds live with us forever, and when last we shall be called from this earthly habitation, may it be our pleasant portion to join our departed friend in the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

Resolved—That we extend to his bereaved wife and to the talented son, Elmer, who was the very pride of his heart, our deepest sympathies in their sorrow.

That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of our Association, a copy be sent to his family and be furnished the city papers for publication.

What Makes White Spots on Nails.
It is now thought that the white spots which frequently appear on finger nails are due to the presence of gas in the substance of the nail. They occur much more frequently during youth and in women, and are usually found in persons of nervous type. There is no remedy for them and no means of prevention except the avoidance of injury to the nails.

The Editor and You.

Did you ever stop to consider the different treatment accorded you by the editor and that you accord him?

If he should knock your business through the columns of his paper, you would nurse a grudge against him to your grave, and as time rolled by it would grow in size until you would find it as hard to hold as a baby elephant soaked in grease.

Now, is such the case with the editor? He hears that you have ridiculed and run down his paper; that you have told people on the streets that it could not come to your home, and then you tell him your daughter has graduated. He praises her to the sky, says she is the joy and pride of the community, the smartest thing on earth and that her parents have just cause to be proud of her.

You can mark your paper "refused"—stick it back into the post-office and boast of it to your associates, humiliating him, if you can, but if your son gets into trouble, or your daughter misbehaves in church or elsewhere, rather than hurt your feelings he suppresses everything connected with the unfortunate case at the risk of being called a numskull who can never get hold of the news.

He hears of your denunciation, feels the sting of it all, and some time suffers financial loss as a consequence, but he never uses the columns of his paper to "get even."

On the other hand, if you have anything to boast, he will boost it for you; if honors come your way he takes local pride in heralding it abroad, and if death invades your home he will go to the bottom of his heart for tender expressions of sympathy and condolence for those left to mourn.

You might sometimes think of these things while endeavoring by word or deed to belittle the editor and his usefulness in the community. You might put a higher polish on your Christianity by following the editor's example. — Harrodsburg Herald.

Good Reason for Being Woman.
My nature man belongs to the hunt in the open, and woman to the fire indoors, and just here lies one of the best reasons for being a woman rather than a man, because a woman can get along without a man's out-of-doors much better than a man can get along without a woman's indoors, which proves woman of the two the better bachelor, as being more self-contained and self-contented. Every real man when abroad on the hunt is always dreaming of a hearth and a hob and a wife, whereas no real woman, if she has the hearth and the hob, is longing for man's hunting spear or quarry. If she is indeed a real woman she is very likely longing for him to get out long enough to give her time to brush up his hearth and raise his teapot satisfactorily to herself. — Atlantic Monthly.

Land Always in Motion.

We are apt to think of the sea as something that is constantly shifting and the land as something quite stable. In reality the land is always moving, and science now believes that quite possibly it is moving even faster than the surface of the ocean.

Tourist Robbed.

More than 100 tourists, traveling in twelve stage coaches through the Yellowstone National Park, were robbed Friday by one highwayman. Because tourists are not allowed to carry firearms into the park, the robber met with no resistance. He escaped into the woods. The holdup took place fifteen miles from Yellowstone, whence the coaches had departed early. In a heavily wooded section the man stepped out and stopped the second coach. The first coach was not molested and those in the second vehicle thought the proceeding a joke. They were convinced of their error only when forced to deposit their money and valuables at the feet of the robber. Thus each successive coach was halted and the passengers robbed. The coaches continued to the Fountain Hotel where the tourists were to have luncheon and military authorities at Mammoth Hot Springs did not learn of the robbery until four hours later. Troops started from every section of the park to search for the bandit. Two men were detained later on suspicion that they might know something of the crime. Many of the victims of the robbery were Shriners, en route to the annual convention in Seattle. Several women faced the robber's rifle.

The Farmer's Prayer.

A. A. Clark, in Farm and Fireside.
O Father, I thank Thee that my forebears were tillers of the soil.

Thou knowest that I have gone down to the sea in ships; I have followed the shifting crowds that cluster around the night fires of a great city; I have listened to the words of them that have authority; but nowhere have I found a place where my heart could be at ease, save in the orchard paths and meadows of my fathers.

O Father, I look not to men desiring to wrest from them the means wherewith to live; I look up to Thee, who dost the rain and the sunshine in the hollow of Thy hand; in Thee do I trust, for Thou hast promised that the seedtime brings the harvest.

O Father, give to the idle and the hungry eyes to see that the face of the land miles where the plowshare passes.

Grant that I may not be discouraged by the petty dealings of those who traffic in the things I labor to produce.

Let there be willing hands to gather the riches of autumn; hands that delight in the touch of the golden grain; eyes that glory in the beauty of ripe fruits; ears that love the slow tread of faithful beasts.

O Father, the promise of the green earth fills me with peace. Let it be my privilege to refresh the weary passer with a glimpse of growing things tended by one who loves the land.

Even so shall I add to Thy glory and my own eternal salvation. Amen.

MOTHBALLS A WAR LUXURY

Price of Pungent Marblee Has Been Quadrupled Since Hostilities Began.

The war has affected various household and commercial necessities in the past nine months, but who for an instant thought that the common mothball would become a luxury? Such is the case, however, and the housewife is just beginning to realize that there is not only a dearth in the supply, but that they have increased almost four times in price. And right in the middle of housecleaning period and packing away of the winter furs and garments she is learning it to her dismay. To the pawnbroker and storage house proprietor this is also an unwelcome news.

Before the war mothballs were as cheap as clothespins. Then it was that Mrs. Homebody could run around to the corner drug store about this time of the year and buy six pounds for a quarter. Now that amount will buy her but a little more than a pound of the pungent crystallized balls.

All this, wholesale dealers in pharmacists' supplies say, is due to the war, and they explain it in this manner: Before the war England sent to this country most of the naphthalene, of which mothballs are made. Since last August not a shipment has been made.

Fat Necessary to Health.

Fat, even in considerable amounts, is not a sign of disease more than once in a hundred times, and is never a cause of disease. On the contrary, fat is one of the wholesomest, most necessary and most useful tissues in the body. No tissue, not even the most energetic muscle, or the most chemically active liver or kidney cell, or most delicate nerve cell or sense organ can possibly be healthy without fat. And the more vitally important and valuable an organ is, the more certain it is to carry a constant stock of fat in its substance, as a margin of reserve.

Just Like a Boy.

The teacher was having an interesting half hour with the children, asking them questions, anyone having the privilege to answer. It was a great time to show off. The teacher asked about various things, and one question was about locusts. Several hands were raised, and finally one boy was selected to speak. "A locust is a bug that gives people tuberculosis," was his answer.

The Trading Stamp Nuisance.

What John Wanamaker does not know about merchandising nobody knows. It is everywhere recognized that there is no more successful retail merchant in this country than he, and it is equally recognized that his success is built upon the sterling, straightforward principles which must underlie real and enduring success in business, success which means the legitimate interest of both the seller and buyer. What he has to say, therefore, about the modern nuisance of trading stamps is worth attention. He thus writes to the Editor and Publisher:

"Over fifty active years of merchandising experience—years during which I have studied and thought out almost every kind of plan and proposition to serve the public and increase my business with it—have convinced me that trading stamps or premium schemes of any kind whatsoever have no legitimate place in the distribution of merchandise. The coupon is an admission that the goods carrying it do not measure up to the price asked and that something extra must be included to give money's worth."

"No retail store that I have any knowledge of has built up what is seemingly a permanent business on the plan of giving away something for nothing. In the long run, it is the public who are fooled. Something must bear the expense of the catch penny device and that some one is even usually the purchaser. Recently I wrote in one of our advertisements of business obstructions. I placed trading stamps, coupons and premiums on the list as second in importance of obstructions that are found on the railroad track of business success."

"Store keeping, as I see it, consists in the collection and distribution of merchandise with the smallest possible expense between the producer and the consumer, and surely this cannot be done where premiums must be included in 'overhead' expenses."

"In conclusion, permit me to state that we do not sell merchandise either in Philadelphia or New York that is packed with coupons. Years ago we decided on this policy and though sometimes goods have been shipped in with coupons concealed—and some times actually sealed in—we stop such goods wherever we find them."

There is nothing in this which is not true; which every merchant, whether he uses trading stamps or not, does not know to be true, and which every intelligent buyer, if he will stop to look into the matter, will not be bound to confess to be true. Purchasers who get trading stamps with their goods pay for both stamps and goods, and they are bound to get less or inferior goods when part of the price they pay goes for stamps. The whole trading stamp folly is an excrescence and a burden on merchandising which honest merchandising is bound to get rid of.—Courier Journal.

WATCH THE LITTLE TURKEYS

Brooder Poults Are Almost Sure to Wander Off by Themselves—Chicks Teach Them to Eat.

Watch the little turkeys at first, for often they will follow off any moving thing. If brooder poults, when first let out they are nearly sure to go wandering off after a pig, rooster or even a man, and will not come back unless brought back.

Often their own mother fails to teach them how to eat at first. For brooder poults put in some little chicks with them. These soon show them how to pick up food.

If you would have your poults tame, every time you go near them toss them little feeds of bread, grain, anything like. It does not take them long to get to know you and come hunting you from far across the fields, when you let them get sight of you or hear your voice.

What Bill Did.

Bill Turner was a farmer; he labored all his life. He didn't have no schoolin' neither had his wife. But Bill was built for business and made the wheels go round, and left a healthy fortune when they put him under ground. He was always taking chances, paid a hundred for a bull. His neighbors called him crazy, but he left a stable full of cows that broke the record, making butter by the ton, and Bill had his picture printed in the Squeedunk Weekly Sun. He had newfangled notions of making farming pay. He even bought a fool machine to help him load his hay. The neighbors fairly snorted when they saw the bloomin' thing; said Bill would never make it work. It wasn't worth a ding! Bill didn't say a single word, and didn't care a darn 'bout what they said, for slick as grease, his hay went in the barn an hour before a thunder storm came sailin' out that way and caught his neighbors in a pinch and spoiled their new mown hay. Bill's neighbors put their milk in cans, and set 'em in a tank. Bill skimmed his milk with a machine and turned it with a crank. Smith chops his firewood with an ax. Bill used some gasoline and saw a hundred cord a day with another blamed machine. To-day Bill's wife rides in a car and dresses up in silk. Smith's wife rides in a wagon and keeps on skimming milk.—Taylor County Enquirer.

WELCOME THAT MEANT MUCH

Newcomers in Neighborhood Never Likely to Forget Kindness of Mrs. Estabrooks.

"I am one of your new neighbors—Mrs. Estabrooks," said a cheerful voice at our door in the very middle of our first attempt at moving. "No, I can't come in. I just brought you a bit of lunch, knowing you would be too busy to fix any. Please call on me—just next door—it'll be of any help. Good-by."

"My husband and I glanced at that tray with its two bowls of hot soup and steaming pot of coffee, and then at each other in dumb surprise.

"We had just reached that dreadful state in moving when nothing is in place, and the things wanted first are underneath the things wanted last—that awful moment when a sense of helplessness, weakness and homesickness combined swoops down upon you.

"We had not realized that we were hungry and physically exhausted; but after sitting down at an improvised table, and sampling that delicious soup and drinking the stimulating coffee, we suddenly knew what had been the matter with us. Courage returned.

"Blessings on our neighbor!" cried Ben.

"Yes," I answered. "She's the jolliest caller I ever received. She has taught me how to introduce yourself to new neighbors and win their everlasting gratitude. Whatever happens in this neighborhood I'll stand by Mrs. Estabrooks—see if I don't!"—"Woman's Home Companion."

EXPLAINING DREAD OF DEATH

Suspension of All Familiar Activities Is Something the Mind Instinctively Shrinks From.

It is the variety of experience which makes life interesting—toll and rest, pain and relief, hope and satisfaction, danger and security. If we once remove the idea of vicissitude from life, it all becomes an indolent and uninspiring affair.

It is the process of change which is delightful—the finding out what we can do and what we cannot—going from ignorance to knowledge, from clumsiness to skill. Even our relations with those whom we love are all bound up with the discoveries we make about them, and the degree in which we can help them and affect them.

What the mind instinctively dislikes is stationariness; and an existence in which there was nothing to escape from, nothing more to hope for, to learn, to desire, would be frankly unendurable.

The reason why we dread death is because it seems to be a suspension of all our familiar activities. It would be terrible to have nothing but memory to depend upon.

The only use of memory is that it distracts us a little from present conditions if they are dull, and it is only too true that the recollection in sorrow of happy things is torture of the worst kind.

Irish Names for Chinese.

Five Chinese orphan babies will get five dollars each and a good Irish name if they accept the gift with a string attached to it from a Philadelphia donor, name withheld. The five babies are in an orphan asylum in China.

Several weeks ago Rev. Dr. William J. Garrigan, diocesan director of the Society for the Propagation of Faith of the Catholic Church, published an appeal from a sister of charity in China who had charge of the asylum. The sister said the donor of five dollars would have the privilege of naming one of the babies.

The other day Doctor Garrigan got a letter with $25 inclosed. "To name five babies," the donor said. Attached to the note were these suggested names:

Patrick, John, Bridget, Margaret and Johanna—Philadelphia North American.

Comforting.

The wife of the great botanist beamed at him across the supper table.

"But these," she exclaimed, pointing to the dish of mushrooms that had been set before her, "are not all for me, are they?"

"Yes, Mabel," he nodded. "I gathered them especially for you."

She beamed upon him gratefully. What a dear old husband he was! In five minutes she demolished the lot. At breakfast next morning he greeted her anxiously.

"Sleep all right?" he inquired.

"Splendidly," she smiled.

"Not sick at all—no pains?" he pressed.

"Why, of course not, Archie," she responded.

"Hurrah, then," he exclaimed. "I have discovered another species of mushroom that isn't poisonous."

Odd Facts.

Alum mountain near the headwaters of the Gila river in New Mexico, is a mass of almost solid mineralized rock so rich in aluminum that it is likely to furnish an almost inexhaustible supply after the eastern deposits now being used are gone.

The "oak of peace" at Jené, Prussia, which was planted in 1816 in commemoration of the downfall of Napoleon, was by a strange coincidence struck by lightning and burned to the ground almost at the moment of the reception at Belgrade of the Austrian declaration of war.

Department Store Asset.

In an undertaking like a department store the satisfaction and pride of the women and girls in the place is recognized as one of its real assets. There have been frequent demonstrations of the injury that thoughtless and heartless treatment of women can do to business if this is noised abroad.—Ida M. Tarbell in the American Magazine.

THOUGHT HIM FELLOW GUEST

Doctor's Appearance Mistaken Traveling Man Who Had Put in a Bad Night.

In a Nebraska town there was once a hotel that all traveling salesmen avoided except when they couldn't. There was no heating system, the only warmth in the house being supplied by a small stove in the office.

One howling night, when the wind was mking about thirty knots per hour and the mercury was 20 below zero, a traveling man shivered beneath the insufficient bedclothes in his drafty room until about 3 a. m. Unable to stand it any longer, though he dreaded to leave the bed, he leaped out, seized his clothes and ran to the office. There he shuddered into his garments, and then began building up the fire.

The fire-poking aroused the landlord, who came out and said: "What're you gettin' up this time o' night fer? You left a call ter six-thirty."

"What did I get up for?" shouted the traveling man. "I couldn't stay in bed any longer in that room of mine! I was freezing!"

The landlord defended his hostility and the traveling man assailed it in a regular quarrel.

During the disagreement an old doctor of the town, who had been out in the inclement night and was almost frozen, saw the light in the hotel office and came in. The old man's long whiskers were covered with frost and festooned with enormous icicles.

As the traveling man turned from his quarrel and saw the old man's condition and the pendant ice, he exclaimed: "Heavens, man! Which room did you have?"—Judge.

MEN WHO DO GREAT THINGS

In the Main Are Those Who Consistently and Persistently Press Forward in Life.

"The race is not always to the swift." It is surely a strange philosophy that substitutes anything for fast running as a qualification for winning a foot race. But it was a wise man who said that, and it is probably true, even though there are times when we scorn and despise such a doctrine. They used to speak of David Livingstone as "the man who would go on." And it described him very accurately. Like many another man there were a number of good stopping places in his life, but he never seemed to see them. But men make name and enduring fame for themselves just because they cannot see stopping places, but keep their eyes fixed on the great luring road ahead of them. It is the man who will go on who is going to win the goal, no matter what kind of goal it may be. The pace of the running makes very little difference. The theologians used to talk about the perseverance of the saints, and it was not a bad subject to talk about, just as perseverance is not a bad quality for a saint to have. Probably there are not very many saints made without its help. That is probably one of the great reasons why we have so few saints.

Why Does a Baby Smile?

An interesting mental process with physical manifestations which is found in every healthy baby is smiling. It is a remarkably early one, too, and a child of a month old will often show a distinctly pleased smile when its little face is patted or it is tickled. At first the smile spreads very slowly over the tiny features, then, as time passes, flashes up on the face and dies away again with equal celerity, and by the time the first three months are past is accompanied often enough by little chuckles of glee.

But laughing comes later, often much later, and many children never really laugh until they are a year old, or even more. It is, indeed, very rare to hear laughter before the first six months are accomplished, and when it is heard it should be regarded as a symptom of unusual intelligence, maybe gratifying to a mother's pride, but most certainly not to be excited or provoked.

Relics of Old Persia.

Shuster, the old capital of Persia, is one of Iran's wonder cities. In the dawn of Persian civilization it took a leading part. On the bank of the only navigable river the country can boast, the city gets its name from the famous ruler, Shapur, who built great irrigation dams and a noble bridge across the Kurun, now wrongly credited to the Emperor Valerian. Sixteen hundred years have left the great bridge, a quarter of a mile in length, with yawning gaps, but the water of the river runs today through the channels and tunnels made to fertilize a land that had not yet been overrun by the Arabic barbarians, who destroyed the culture of Persia.

The Green-Eyed Monster.

A dreadful beast is jealousy. Sometimes it has a beautiful look, a dazzling kind of fascination, like some glittering reptile. This is because it is sometimes associated with quite another idea—the idea of love. Of course, jealousy and love have nothing to do with each other. Love is a wish to give. Jealousy is the lowest form of selfishness. So that when she plays with jealousy she is tempting a poisonous bite from the deadly serpent.

She may think just to tease the serpent. But when it is aroused the consequences are often sad enough. One clip from the serpent has been known to kill love.

DAVE SMITH

Thought He Was as Smart as Son Jewell.

Deputy Sheriff David Smith undertook to operate the automobile of his son, Sheriff Jewell Smith, Saturday, starting to Crofton with Neal Wilson in the machine with him. Near the city limits the machine became unruly and ran into a telephone post, knocking off the fender and one wheel. Mr. Smith sustained a painful injury to one hand, but otherwise escaped. Mr. Wilson was not hurt. Mr. Smith will hereafter take a chauffeur with him until he takes a course in vehicular engineering.

Dowers For Brides.

A will executed in Germany by Mrs. Lizette Sinheimer in 1881, and amended by a codicil made nine years later established two trusts called the "Sinheimer Bridal Legacy," and the "Sinheimer Family Stipendium."

The bridal legacy was created to aid maidens connected with the Sinheimer family to set up a home when they married. To the end that not one of these maidens contemplating matrimony should be ignorant of her good fortune, the will directing the printing of advertisements telling of the legacy and inviting all maidens, with the necessary credentials, to lay their claims to a part of the income of the trust. These advertisements were to be printed in one English and one German newspaper published in Frankfurt, Germany.

Mrs. Sinheimer lived in New York more than fifty years ago. In 1857 she returned to Worms, Germany, where she was born, and there she died.

When the character of her will became known to her relatives in this country, Louis Steglitz, an heir at law, brought suit in the supreme court, to test the legality of the instrument. The New York courts have upheld its validity.

En Passant.

(Times)

Mr. Vansant having decreed that the Democrats of Kentucky are not to be informed as to what their party nominees stand for until after the nominations have been made, interest in the campaign for the nominations is, as might be expected, largely confined to the candidates themselves. Later on, when the party discovers whether it is called on to follow a dry leader on a wet platform or a wet leader on a dry, or whether, by good fortune rather than deserving, platform and candidate are alike arid or humid, interest may revive. In the meantime, the following editorial from the Elizabethtown News offers some observations as to Kentuckians in general and candidates in particular that might be read with profit by the gods of the Democratic shell game now in progress:

"In nearly every campaign for twenty years Kentucky has put foolish politics of some kind ahead of the more important and vital matters which affect the material interests of the State.

"For ten or twelve years it was Goebelism; 'who killed Goebel?' and why the Republican party was responsible for the assassination of Goebel. The Democrats were in all that time calling the Republicans a lot of murderers and, in turn, the Republicans were calling the Democrats a lot of election thieves and robbers.

"After this question could not be used effectively to arouse the passions of both sides, then for ten years we have had the question of Prohibition. The people, who four years ago, stood for the county unit, were called prohibition cranks, and now the people who stand for this same thing are called whiskeyites. There has been raised a terrible hullabaloo all over the State about a question which both parties declared four years ago would be settled with the passage of the county unit law and put out of politics, but like the assassination of Goebel it must be dragged from the morgue and re-vivified for some one to run upon as a candidate for Governor. It is a sorry spectacle we have of issues, which are not issues, pushed to the front through blatant demagoguery and the vital questions of taxation, schools, roads, and State development thrust in the background and scarcely given a passing notice. With the State $3,000,000 in debt, with the expenses every year greater than the income, not a candidate for Governor is offering any solution of the grave situation. The sensible thinking people of Kentucky are tired, very tired, of fighting campaigns over questions which are injected for personal advancement, while the weightier matters of the law, those which vitally touch every citizen and which are demanding settlement, are, through cowardice on the part of the candidates, kicked into the closet and relegated to the rear. The result of all our foolish politics, which more and more disgusts an intelligent public (growing more intelligent all the time) is that not more than half the Democrats of the State will take part in the primary election on the first Saturday in August and half of those who do vote will do so reluctantly and with serious misgivings as to whether it is worth while."

Wot Chance?

[Verses written—according to the Central Howard association by a seventeen-year-old prisoner in the Pontiac, (Ill.) reformatory.]

Oh, yes, I'm guilty right enough; It ain't no use to throw a bluff. An' yet I guess society Kin share the guilt along o' me. I ain't the kind to weep and whine— But say, wot chance, wot chance was mine?

Born in a dirty, reeking slum, Where decent sunlight never come, An' starved for food, an' starved for air,

Through all my years of boyhood there, While evil things, an' low an' mean Was nearly all the life I seen.

Of course, I grew to be a tough, A hoodlum and a bad young rough. But even then I might uv been Reformed to be some use to men.

If every time I left the trail They didn't slam me into jail, Where thieves and all the rotten crew

Would teach me worse than all I knew.

Oh yes, I'm guilty, that is clear, But every guy who's listenin' here, An' all you swells an' good folks Who sniffs at me, an' such like blokes,

Is guilty, too, along o' me, An' will be till the world is free Of stinkin' slums an' rotten holes That poison people's hearts an, souls

An' cheats 'em from their very birth From any decent chance on earth. I ain't the kind to weep an' whine— But say, wot chance, wot chance was mine?

The First-Born.

(New York World.)

Warning of a new "race peril" is given by Dr. Elizabeth Hamilton-Muncie, who says that the "families of degenerates" have become nearly twice as large as those of normal persons, and unless families are limited by "remedial legislation" "Americans will wake up some day to a realization that they are weaklings."

This is a new aspect of "race suicide." But the relation of weaklings to greatness is of so complex a nature as to make generalization unsafe. If the world could always count on its first-born for leadership and for the highest intellectual qualities, the limitation of families and the elimination of the "unfit" might be urged with more plausibility. But on the other hand there is the danger of making the race "normal" at the expense of intellectual and industrial progress.

Dr. Havelock Ellis, in a study of British men of genius, showed that they came mainly from large families, were often the children of elderly parents, were precocious and frequently of feeble health in early life; many exhibited marked nervous traits and some a tendency toward insanity. He found four families of nineteen in the 900 "lives" he examined. And Dr. Louie Rablnoyitch, in a paper read before the international congress of Psychiatry, instanced seventy-four great poets, writers, painters and musicians of whom only ten were first-born children.

Keats, Shelley and Goethe were eldest sons, but Coleridge was the last of thirteen children. Napoleon was a younger son; Washington the fifth of a family of ten, but the first child of a second marriage. Benjamin Franklin was the fifteenth of a family of seventeen. Rubens, Bernhardt, Wagner, Schumann and Schubert were younger or youngest children of large families.

Much sentiment, from biblical days down, has been attached to the "first-born," and the law of inheritance has largely favored him. But nature plays no favorites in endowing children with intellectual gifts and takes no account of eugenic theories. Many of the world's great in the past have been perilously near the line that divides the defective from the normal; and there is every reason to suppose that some of the great yet to come will be born to families a modern board of health would be loath to "certify."

An Italian has discovered a way to detect minerals in flours and drugs.

CIRCUS EMPLOYEE

ATTACKED BY LION

Falls Against Animal's Cage and Leg Caught by Enraged Beast.

Hazard, Ky., July 9.—While Haag's Greater Shows were being unloaded here yesterday Johnnie Peebles, an employee of the shows, while working near the lion cage, fell or was thrown against the cage, and he was unable to withdraw his foot at once. One of the large lions confined in the cage sprang upon his foot and buried its teeth in the man's flesh.

Peebles was unable to help himself, and other employees had to enter the cage and knock the lion in the head with an ax before it would let go the man's foot. Peebles was at once taken to Dr. Hurst's office, where his wounds were dressed. The lion's teeth went through his foot in several places and he is suffering intense pain.
